what happens to
all our books
with their meticulous notes & markings we had assumed that someone would care
the words we have touched are no more immortal
than we are
will every thing disappear just as nothing disappears

“Your body is not you; your life is transported, moving in time without stopping even for a moment. ....
The pure mind does not stay, it comes and goes in fragments. Even if there is truth, it does not stay
within the boundary
of yourself.” <325>

(in memory of William Doty)
